OUR THEME

The ties which bind this nation to the other neighbors of the Western Hemisphere are the same as the basic principles for which the New World was discovered, explored, and colonized. Liberty, freedom, and equality constitute the essentials for our renewed allegiance to our brother Americans; but in addition to these fundamental concepts, there is a common bond of union. Besides sharing our heritage of democracy, we are a vital and moving part of a great world conception. The spirit of brotherhood is the universal cry against intolerance and injustice. The hope of democratic nations is that, growing out of the present struggle, there may be a broader significance and practice of good neighbor policies. We of the Americas believe that unity for victory is the password for successful relationship with all nations.

In choosing Pan-Americanism for the theme of this year's "Coyote," members of the staff had a deeper conception than merely to portray the brilliant local color, the unique customs of the South American peoples, and the musical flow of their language. They have attempted to add a small contribution toward fostering a more permanent understanding and whole-hearted cooperation with our neighbors of the South.

High school students are offered six distinct mathematics courses in the three-year period of study. These include two years of algebra, plane and solid geometry, and advanced and commercial arithmetic.

Ten capable teachers handle the perplexing problems which confront the mathematics student. Advanced algebra is offered as a preparatory course for those who wish to continue this study in college. Advanced arithmetic covers a study of problems applicable in daily living.

BIOLOGY

Students of WFSH may not be "Luther Burbanks" when they complete the course studied in this science laboratory, but they will obtain a knowledge of the biological world through the instruction of an efficient corps of teachers.

The biology department is headed by Mr. Morris, Mr. Falls, and Miss McKee, who supervise laboratory work and direct class recitations. The study in biology establishes a foundation for the physics or chemistry major.

BAND AND ORCHESTRA

The Coyote Band is well known for its exceptional maneuver ability in field and parade participation. The band's outstanding characteristic is its rapid march tempo. Besides exceptional marching ability, the band prides itself upon numerous and varied selections of both popular and classical origin. The major part of band activities is in connection with football games and other sports, but each year members journey to Denton, Texas, for the annual high school concert tournament.

Under the efficient leadership of its new director, the senior high school orchestra has expanded in both numbers and instrumentation. Through the efforts of Mr. Greenway, an inter-school plan for Wichita Falls has been devised to enlarge the size of the orchestra and increase the ability of its members.

GOOD NEIGHBORS

Hemisphere solidarity depends on friendly cooperation of neighboring countries. The United States is indeed fortunate in that it enjoys this friendly cooperation with its neighbors in the western hemisphere. A nation is a good neighbor to other nations in the same proportions that the citizens are themselves good neighbors. Here again the United States is fortunate. From that person in the highest circle down to the student in our very own school this warm, sincere spirit prevails.

Our nation is fortunate also in that it has great leaders — men endowed with strength and wisdom and above all with a love for and an understanding of the principles of justice and liberty which are the basis of all democracy. Like the nation we, too, have our leaders, students outstanding in ability and full of genuine concern and friendliness for their fellows.

So, in this our Good Neighbor division, the staff presents to you—the Good Neighbors of WFSH.

AMIGOS

To express in song and dance and colorful costumes their deeds, both heroic and trivial, is a characteristic of our Latin-American neighbors. In the home, the plaza, the parks, and the gay carnivals is seen multitudinous evidence of their love for music and gaiety. Moving bodies, tapping feet, tinkling bells, and ancient trumpets vividly portray the feelings and moods of these emotional people. In our own dances can be seen the Latin influence—in the lively congas, the tangoes, and the rumbas.

Not only do these Spanish-speaking compatriots of ours show their love of beauty in all forms of music; they have from the early times of the Aztec and Inca Indians made use of vivid colors in art, in costumes, and in architecture. Borrowed from these neighbors are our own spring colors and designs. The use of Peruvian pink, chili-pepper red, flag blue, and blacks and whites all show the influence of our neighbors.

But these are only concrete examples of the abstract ideals that we possess in common with our friends from "south of the border." We also share with them the love of freedom—freedom to sing and dance—to create and enjoy beauty in all forms. Above all, we believe in the freedom to think.

For over the horizon of the western hemisphere rises a feeling of unity so strong that it calls into existence a cry, "all out for defense." Each country, state, city, and even our own school has answered this plea in true American fashion.

"We will win!"

The junior room pictured here is WFSH's Honor Room. "All out for Defense" is their motto. Besides every student's participation in buying stamps, this group boasts of a number of bond-holders.

Realizing that this nation is a neighbor to the greater portion of the Spanish-speaking world and that Spanish is the prevailing language of over 6,905,000 square miles of territory lying to the immediate south, the Spanish department of Wichita Falls Senior High School believes that the United States should foster the study of that language. As early as 1810, Simon Bolivar worked for a Spanish-American federation until today more than ever in the history of America destiny calls for closer association with other American neighbors.

Each student, as well as every other individual in this country,can help to build a more permanent friendship in this hemisphere by learning the language of American neighbors in Mexico, Central, and South America. As a result of understanding and appreciating their intellectual, literary, and artistic ideals, all can foster the defense of the free Americas.

OUR COACHING STAFF

Few appreciate the responsibility that is invested in the average high school coaching group. It is their task to mold into a compact and serviceable unit a group of young high school amateurs yet in the teenage stages. The school has been very fortunate in obtaining one of the most efficient staffs in the conference or the state. An understanding of football and the ability to impart this knowledge are what our coaches are noted for.

QUEENIE AND AB

An important part of each season's program is the election of a captain and a football queen. The Pack this year selected its captain after the season was concluded, but the election of a football sweetheart was done among the boys early in the year Sarah Ruth Morgan was the lucky one this time, and she carried the teams' decision by a great majority. Sarah Ruth and Albert are both seniors and are outstanding in their classes.

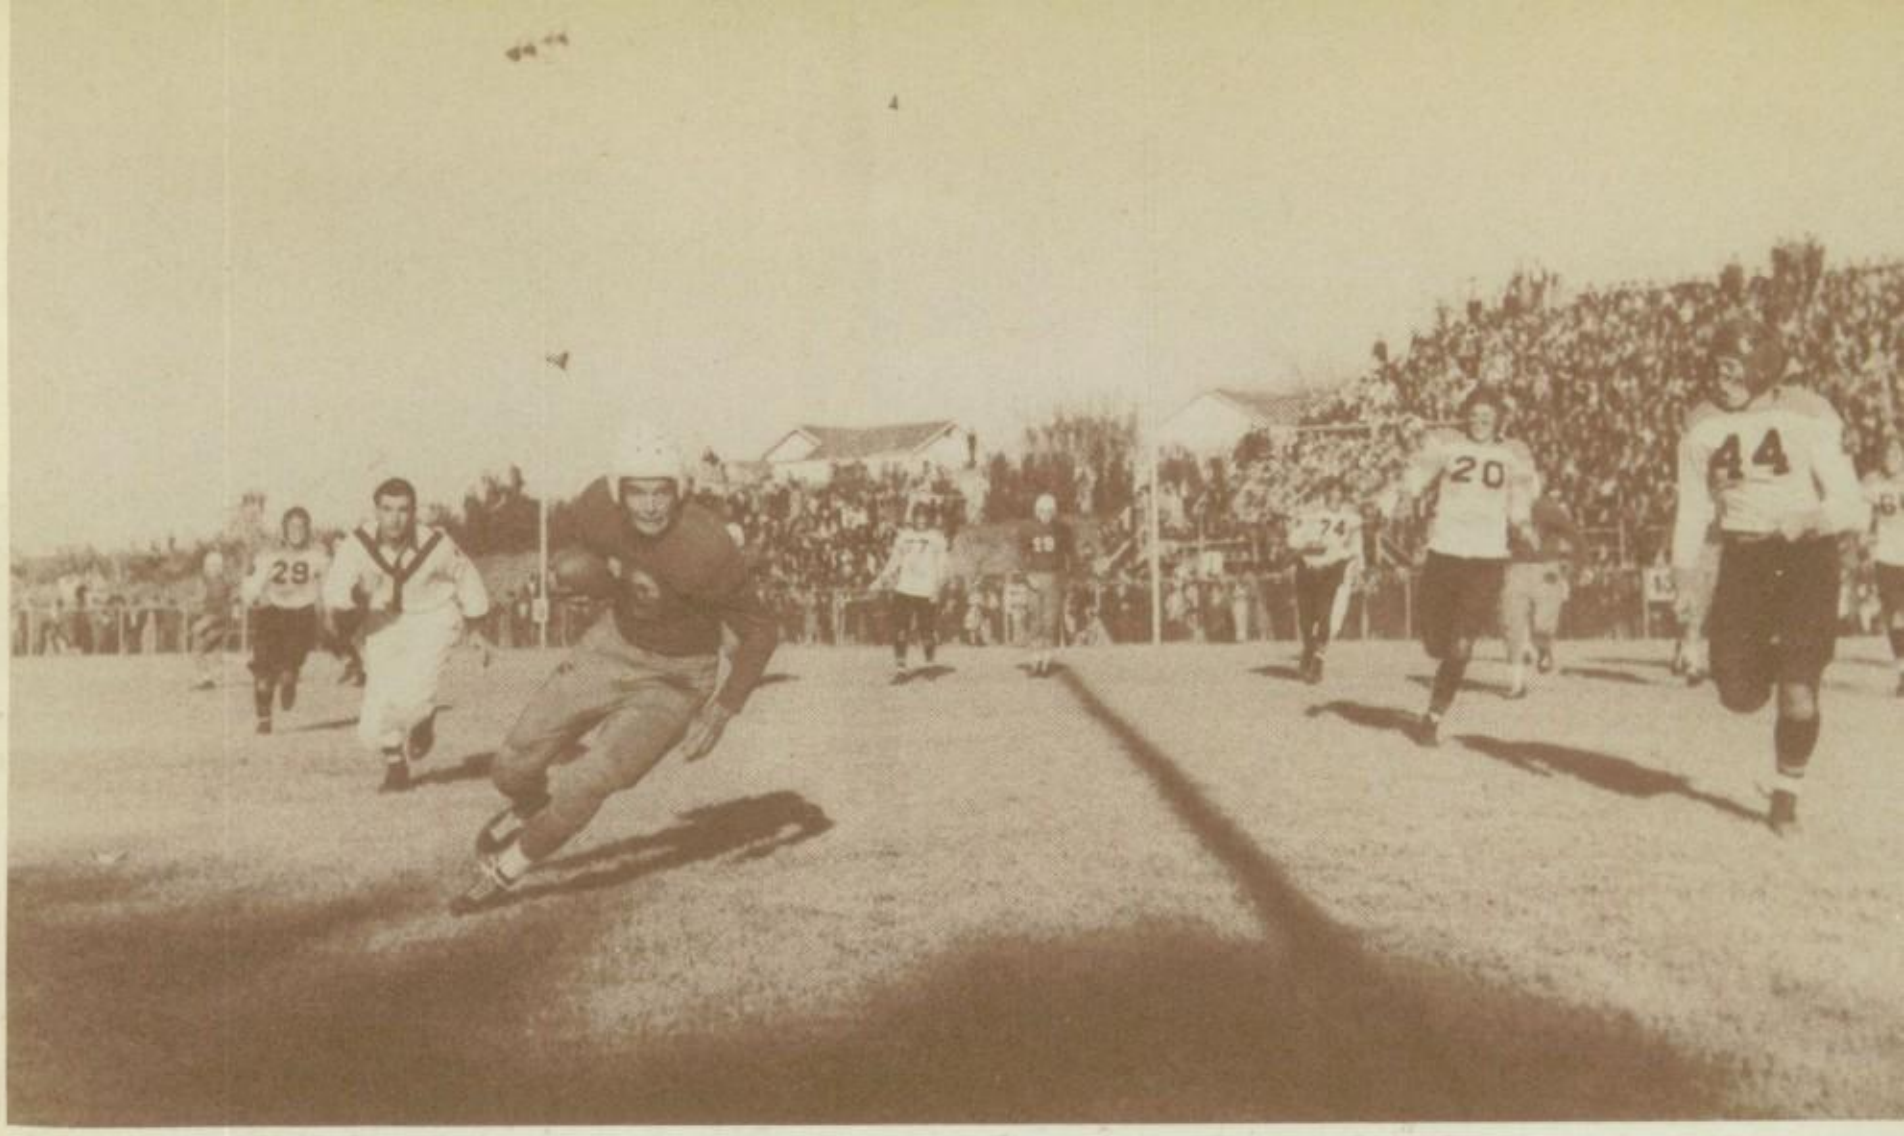
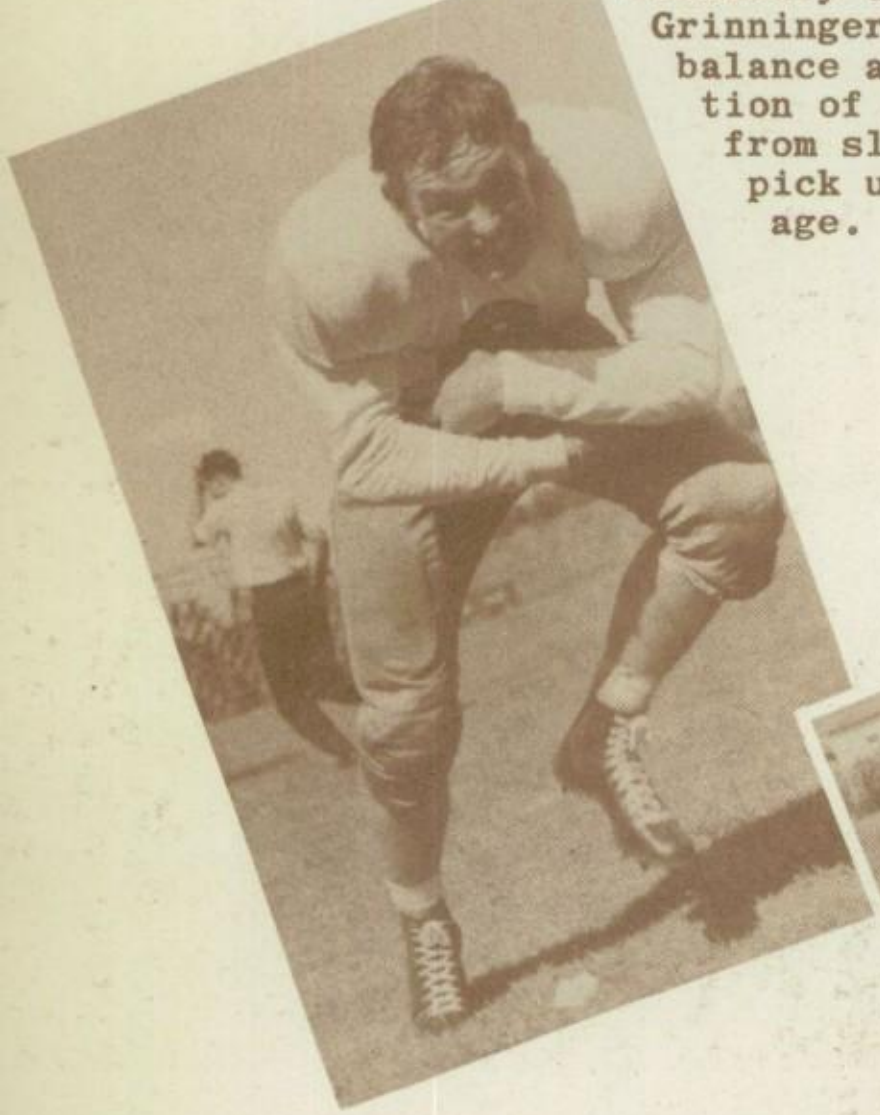
COYOTES
Fight
OLNEY



The home team came from behind to whip a superior eleven from Lubbock in the bi-district contest by a decidedly one-sided score. Grinninger regains his balance after the completion of a beautiful pass from slinging Gene Hill to pick up a nice bit of yardage.

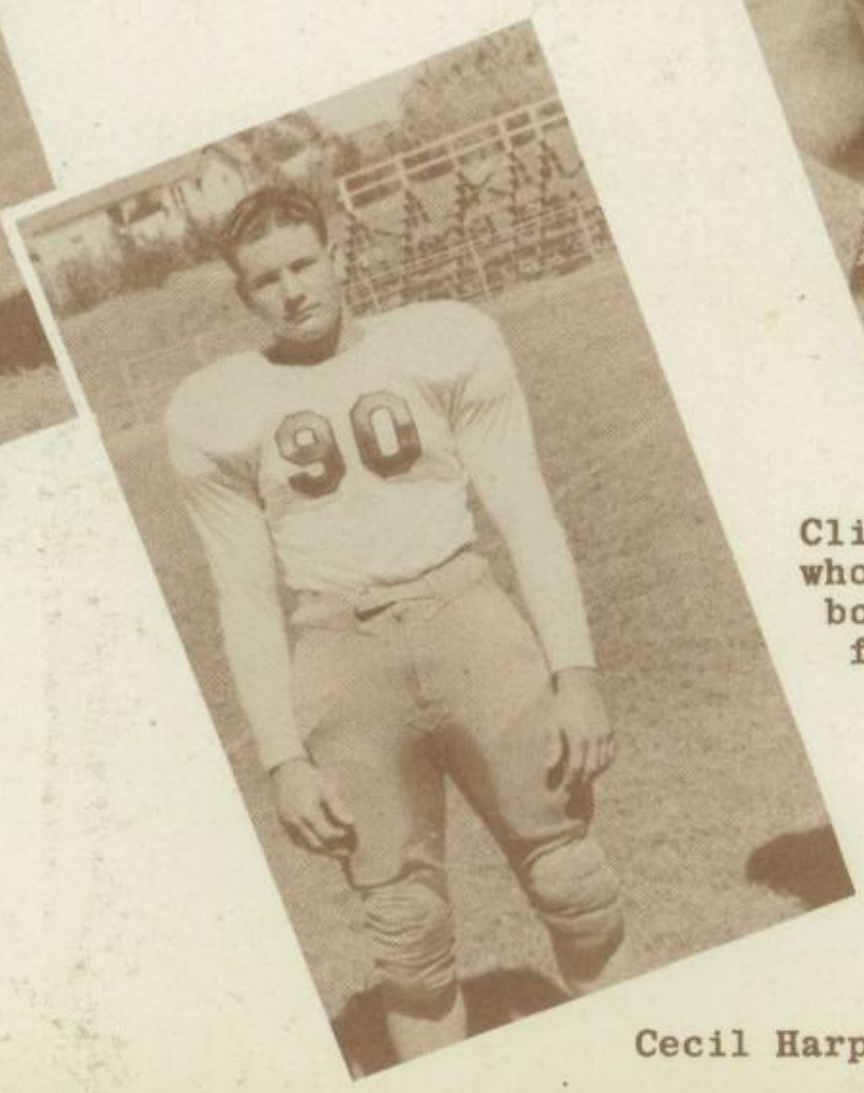


Stanley Williamson

"Stud" proved to be one of the hardest plunging fullbacks W.F.S.H. has ever seen.

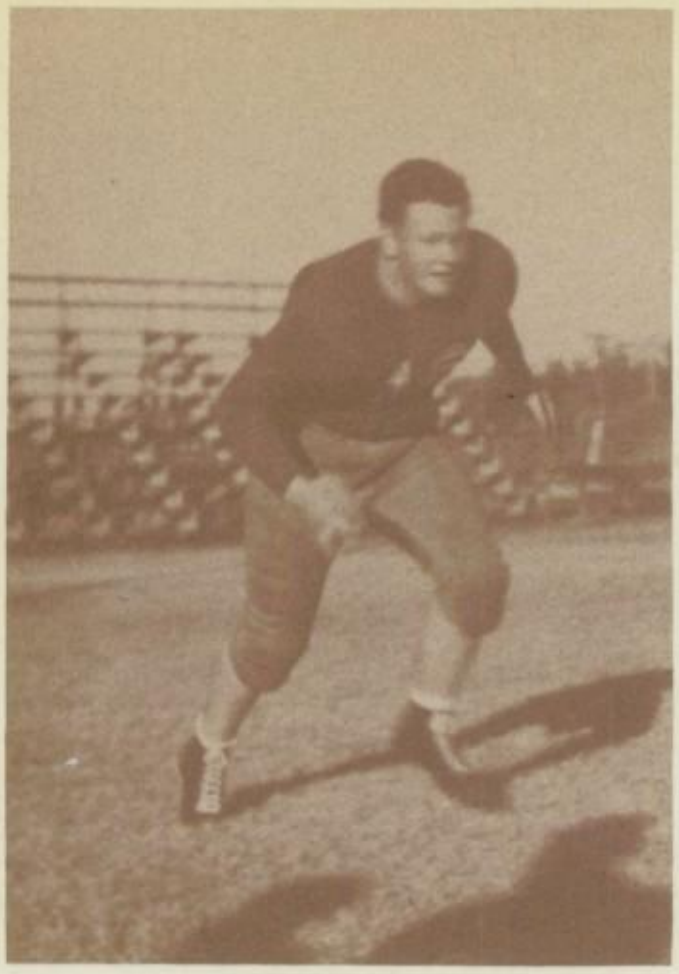
Clifton Garrett

Clifton was another gu who played heads-up ba both offensively and fensively at all tim



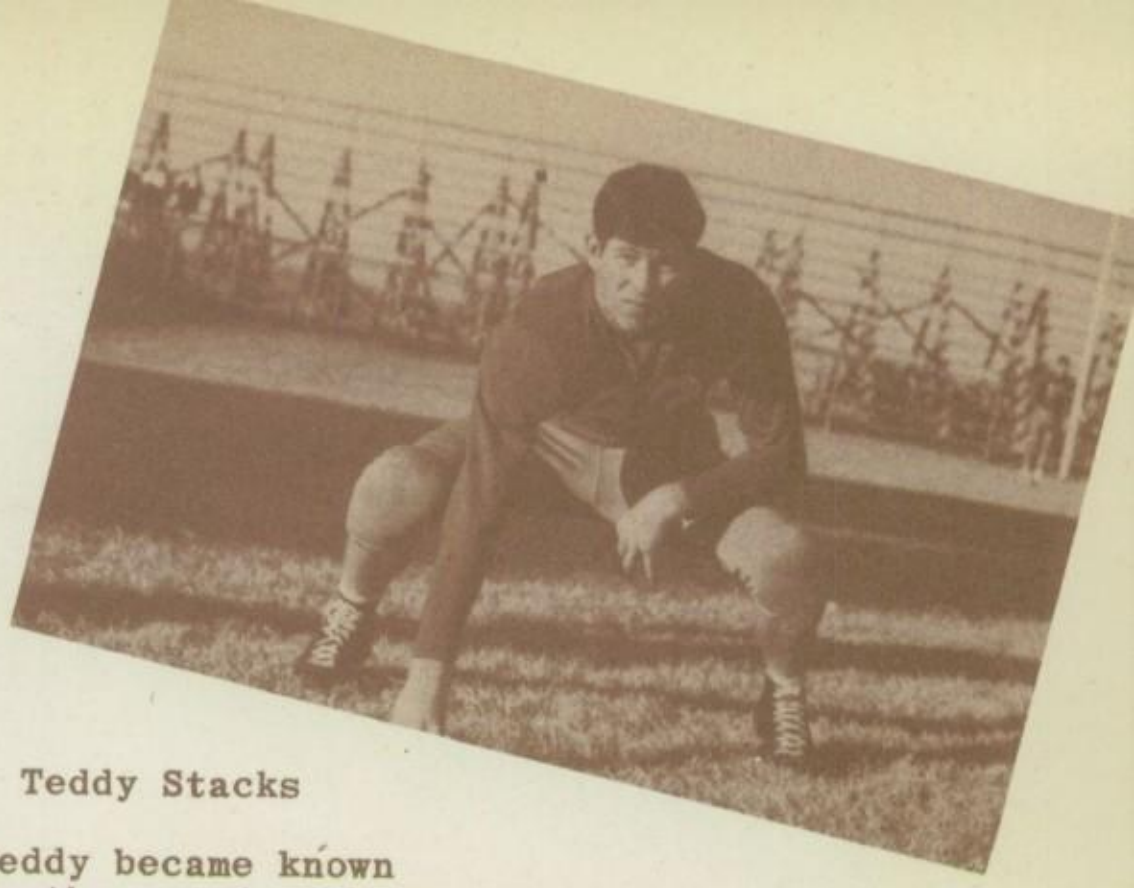
Cecil Harper

Cecil was a reserve guard who saw plenty of action during the season



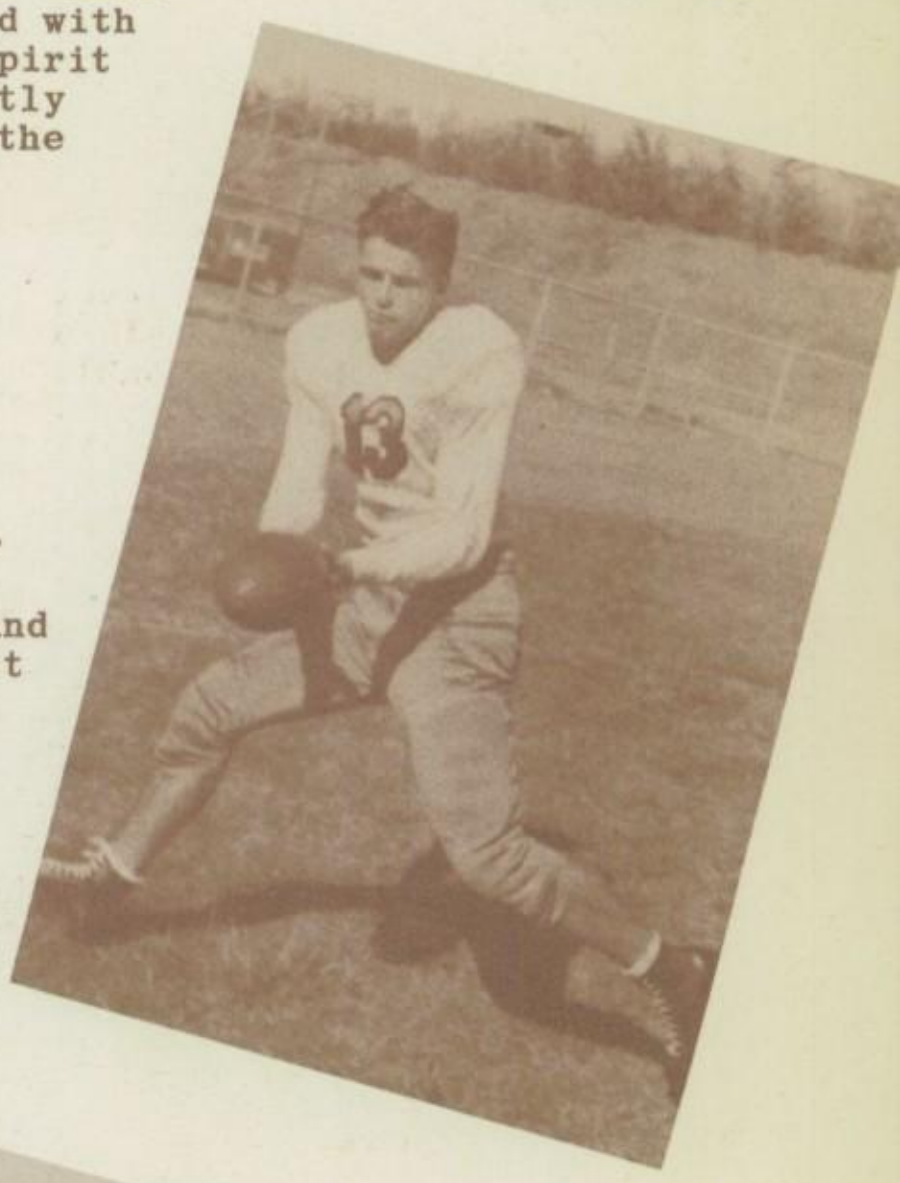
Edwin House

Ed, a massive tackle, is said to have scared all foes away, which undoubtedly accounted for his good record this season.



Teddy Stacks

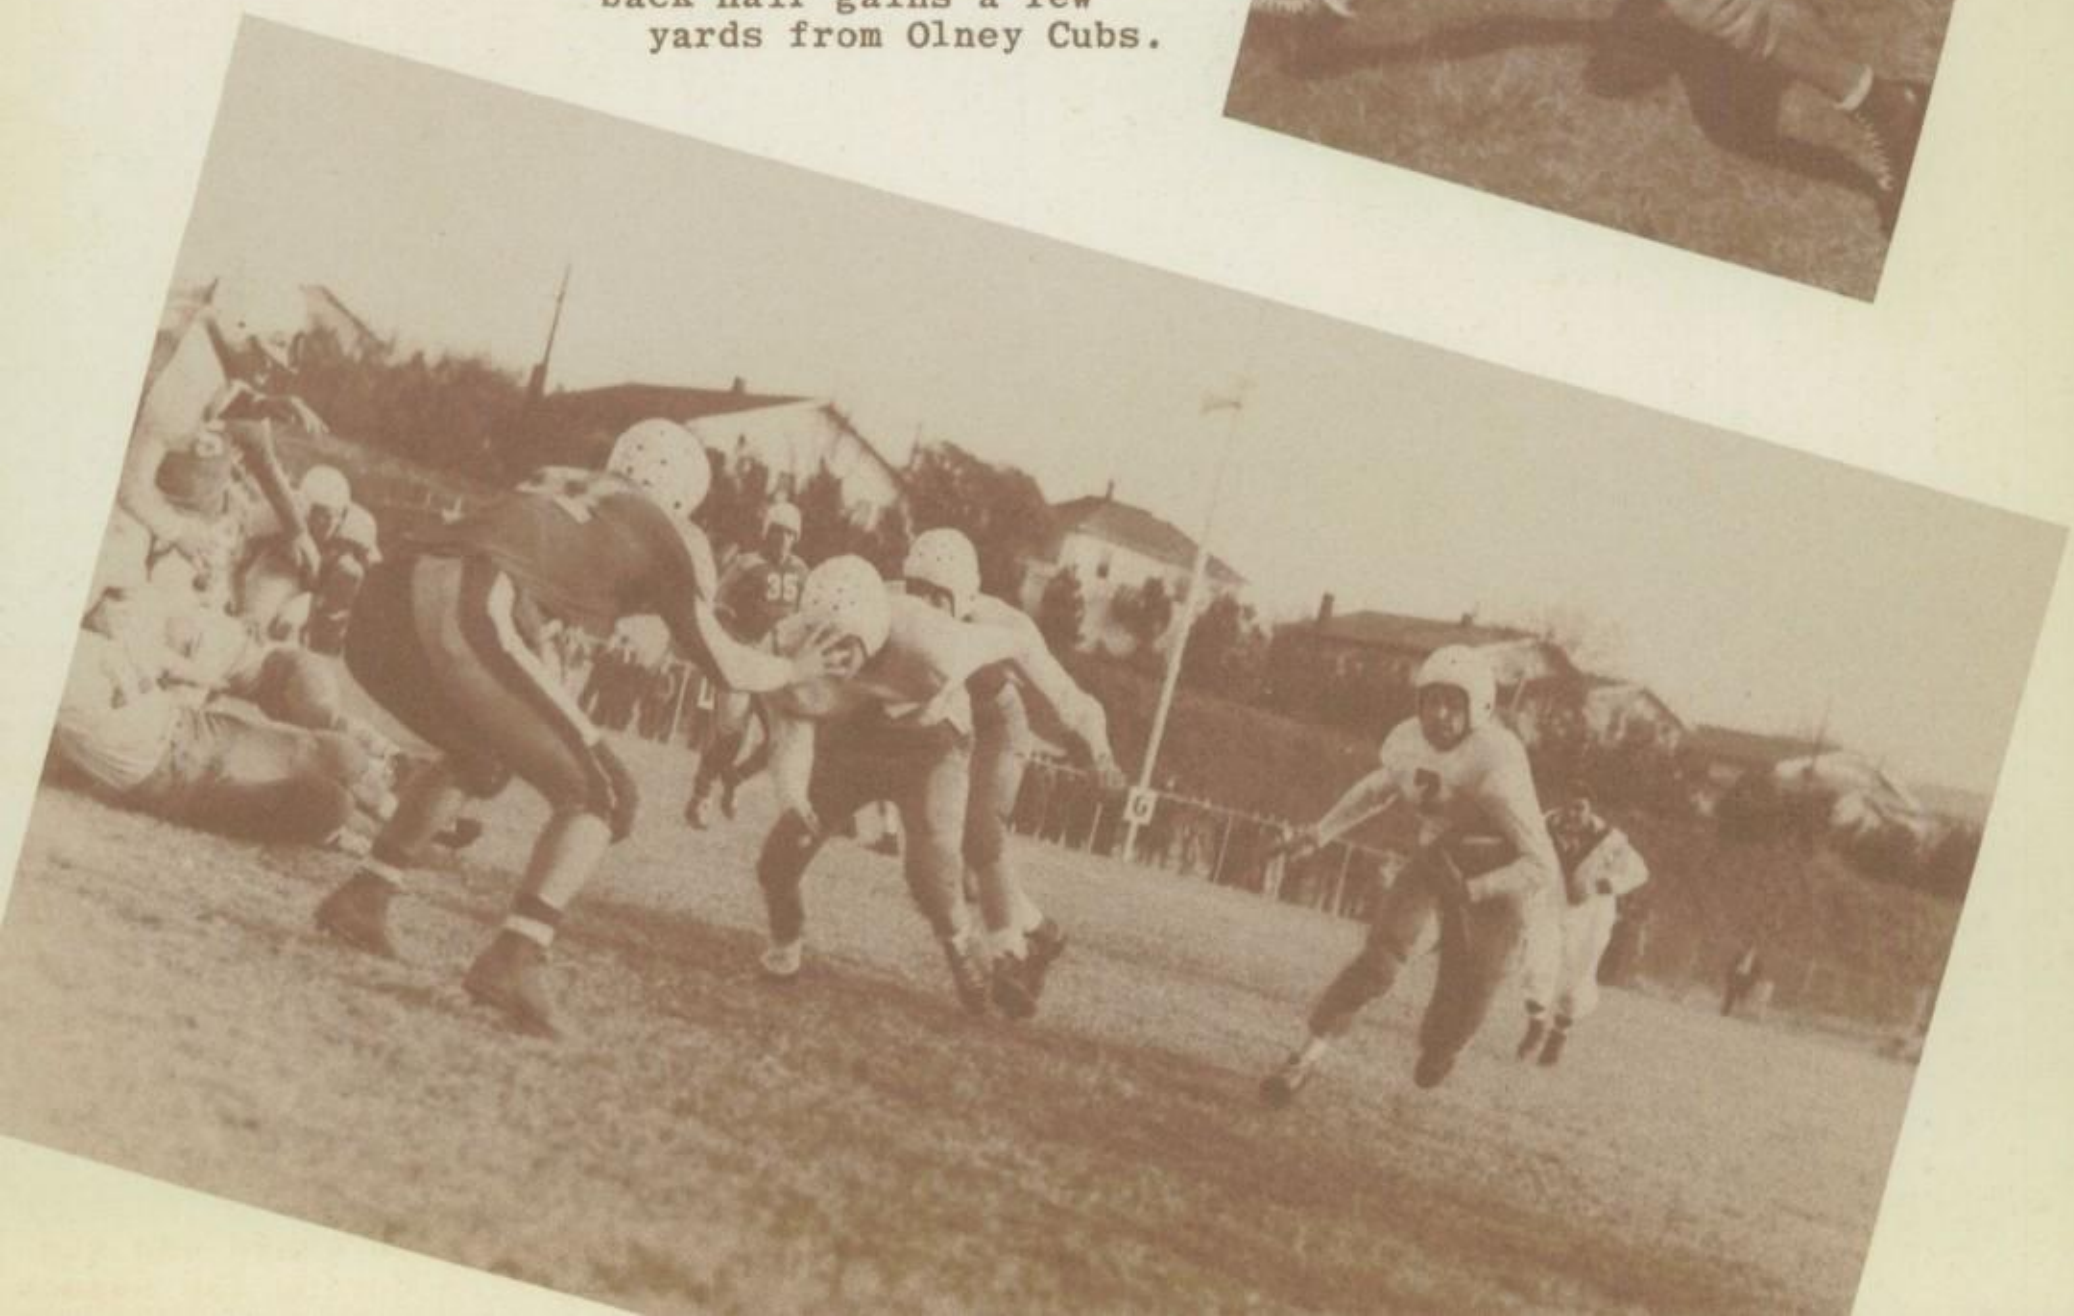
Teddy became known as the guard with plenty of spirit who frequently broke into the line-up.



George Grinninger

"Corky", a very speedy and efficient end, started almost every game of the season.

Behind the interference of guard Ab Bearden, full-back Hair gains a few yards from Olney Cubs.



Albert Bearden

As captain and regular guard, Ab was probably t smartest defensive man on the team and his judgme was respected by friend and foe alike.

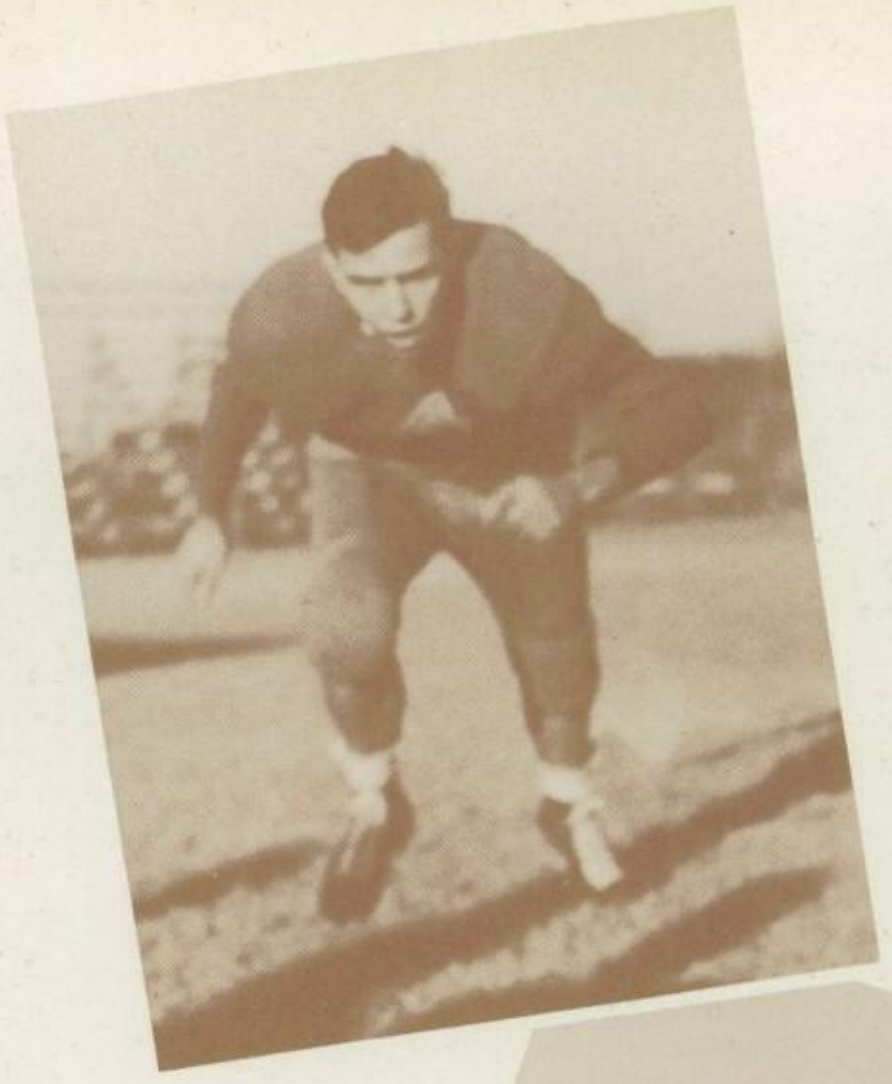
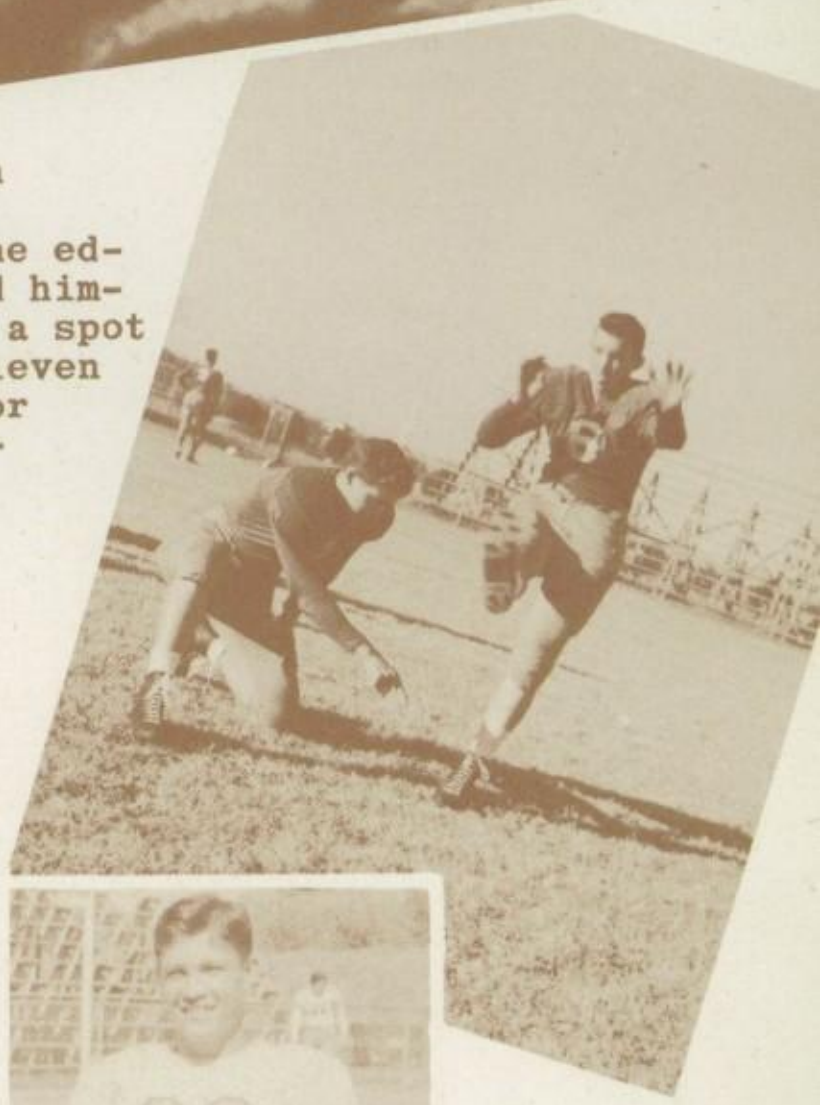
Kenneth Parker

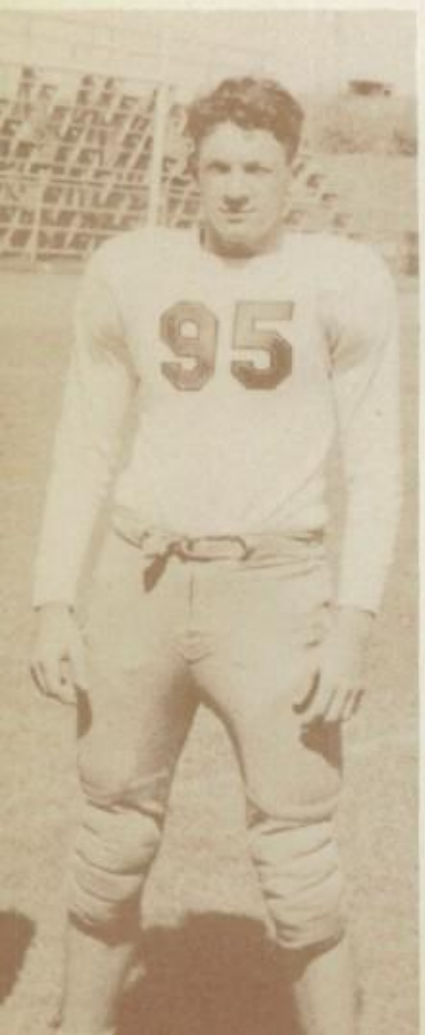
Commonly known as "Rabbit" among the Coyotes, Kenneth proved that his all-around ability made him invaluable to the team.



Bobbie Lee Smith

The man with the educated toe proved himself capable for a spot on the Pack's eleven by accounting for numerous point-after-touchdown scores.





Bill Tillman

Bill was a speedy back who proved to be very valuable to the squad during the season.

Don Dudley

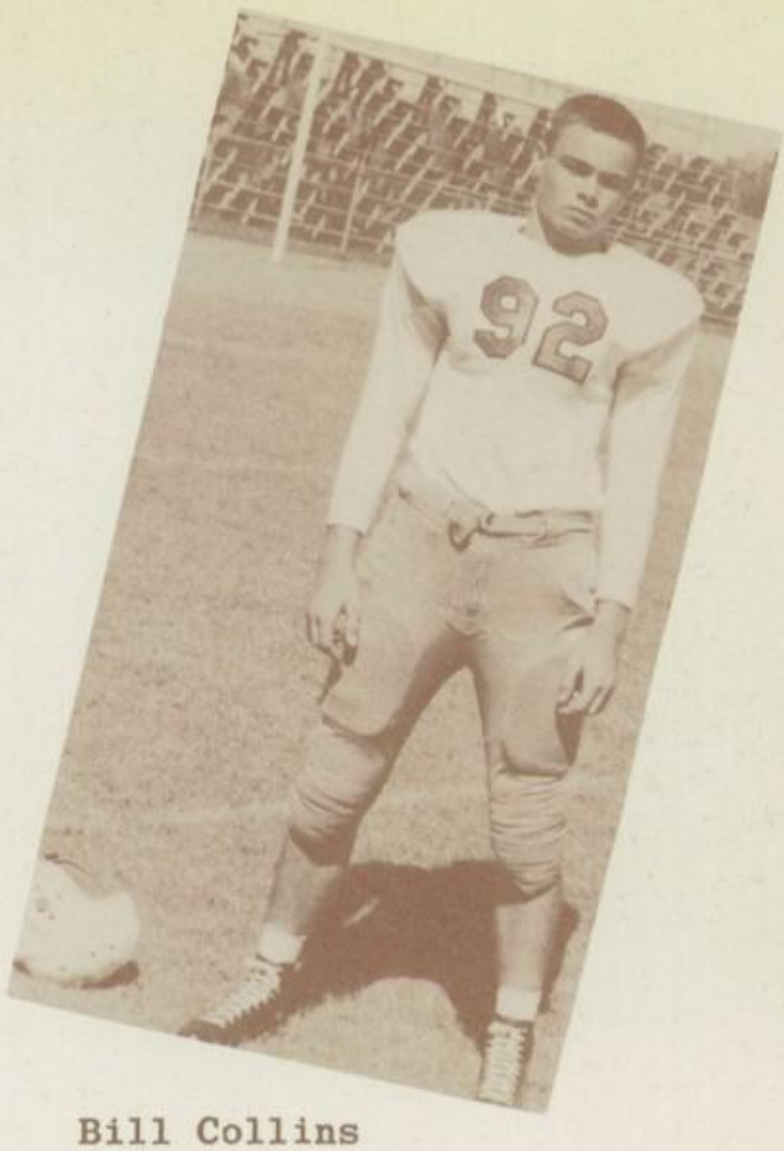
A bit of experience was all Don needed to make him a first-string end; he will be back next year as championship material.

Kenneth Stow

Kenneth was a l
too green to see
service this sea
however, he shou
a top-notch cent
next year.

Kenneth Eschman

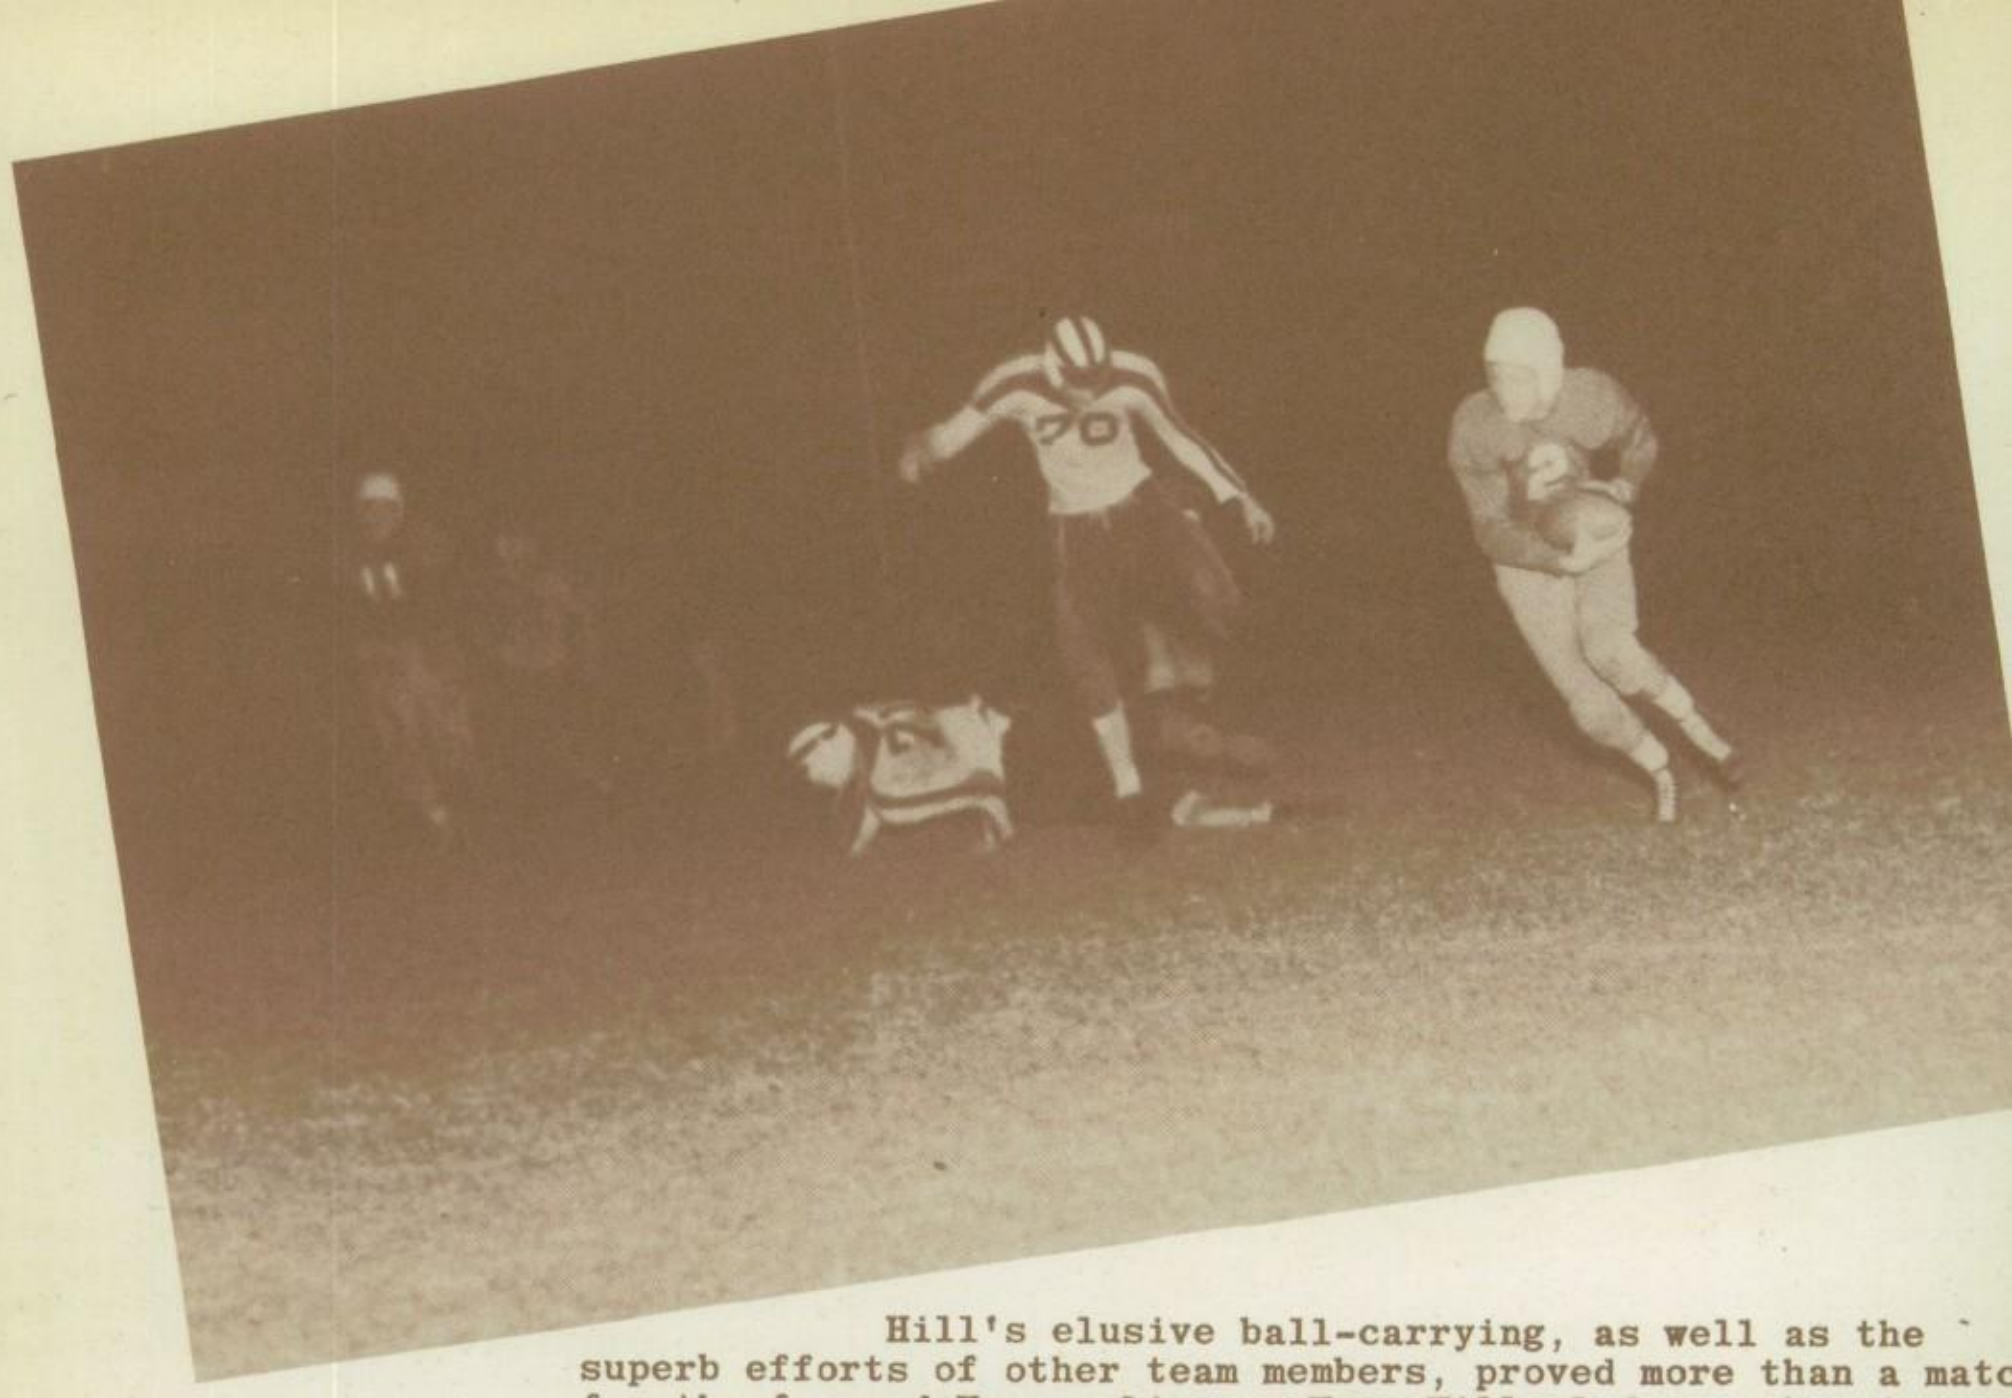
Kenneth was one of the most capable defensive backs on the squad; he also proved to be strong on offensive.



Bill Collins

A lanky end, "Spot", developed into a very capable man; he should be a regular starter next year.

The Coyote eleven played host to a scrappy Ysleta team in the quarter-finals tilt at the Coyote Stadium. Though the Indians made several spectacular exhibitions, the consistent playing of plunging Charlie Hair and the defensive ability displayed by Eschman won a decided victory for the Pack. Here Smith evades two alert Ysleta ends for a nice long gain.



Hill's elusive ball-carrying, as well as the superb efforts of other team members, proved more than a mato for the favored Vernon Lions. Here Hill eludes a charging Vernon linesman.

David Wright

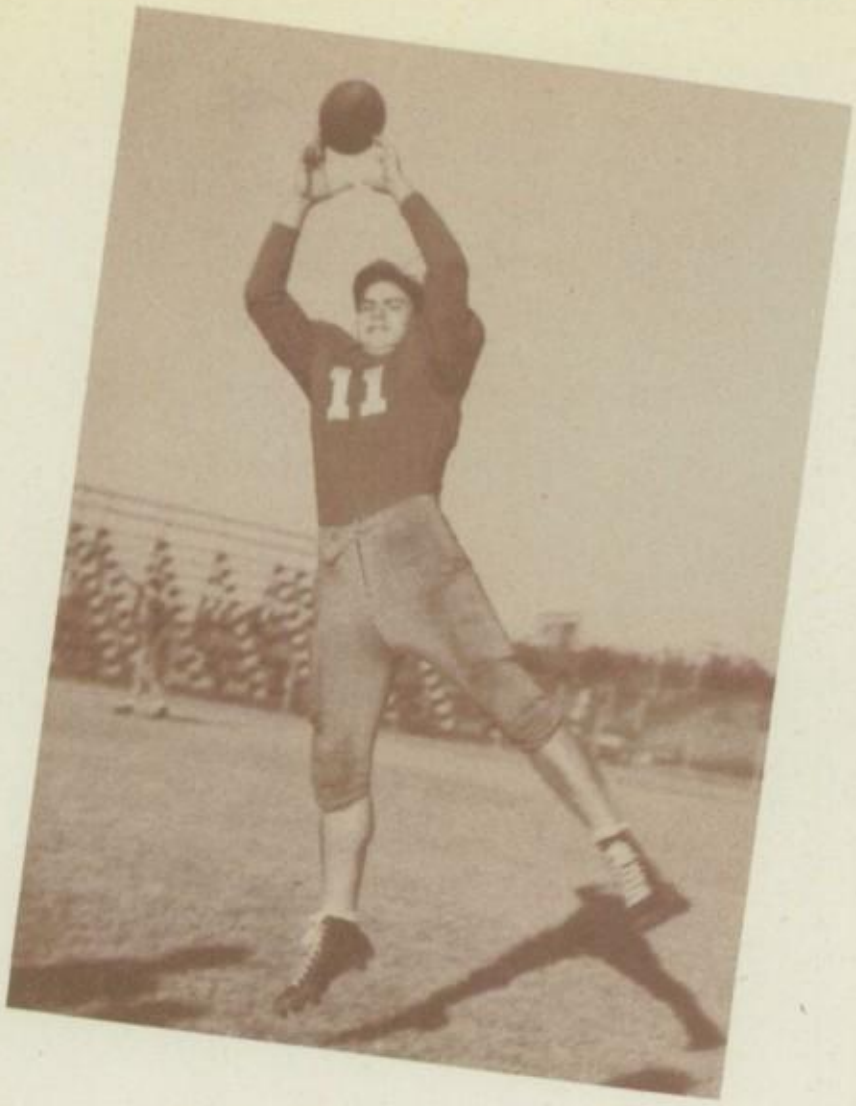
Dave, a great defensive tackle, was one of the mainstays in the Coyote line; he started in a great number of games.

Wilmon McGaughey

"Earthquake", a fine tackle, was one of the most dependable of the Pack's linemen.

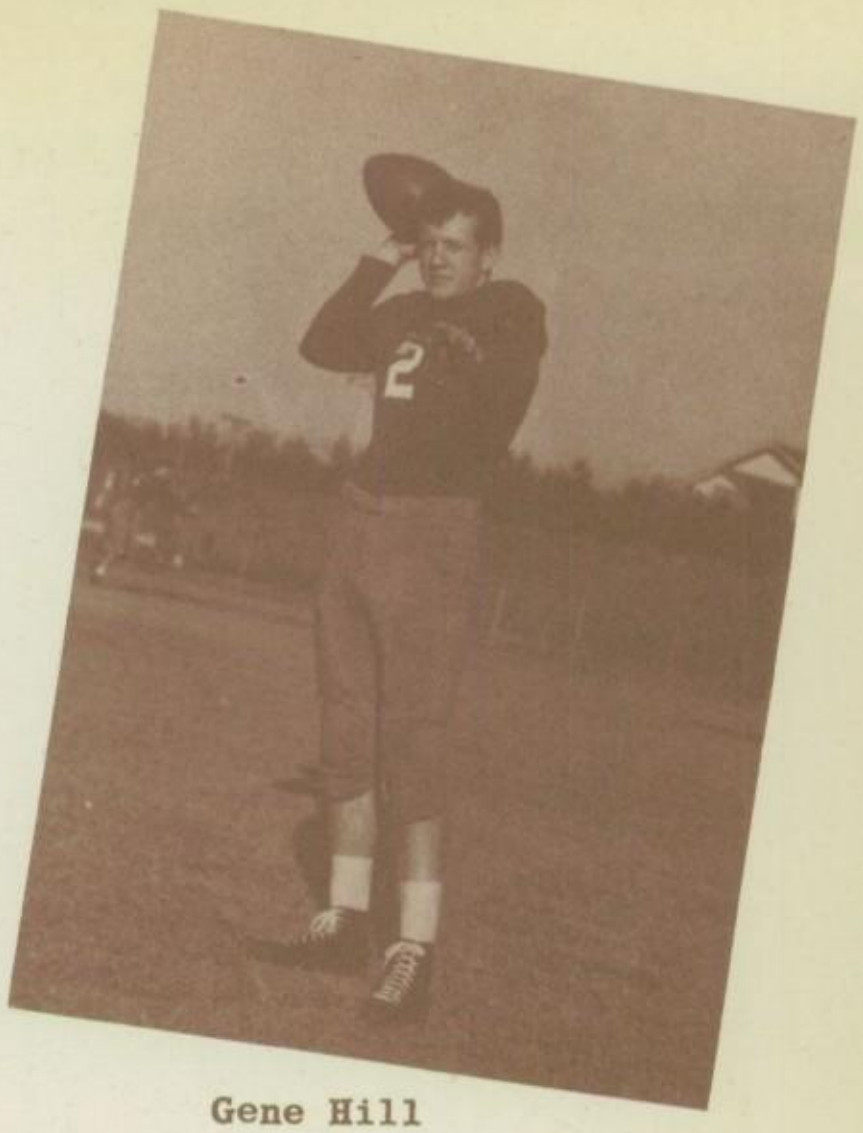
Jim Hallmark

Jim was an outst ing linesman and much service i tackle positio the Coyote for wall.



Troy Stewart

"Hoss" proved his mettle as an end by winning an identical position on the All-State eleven.

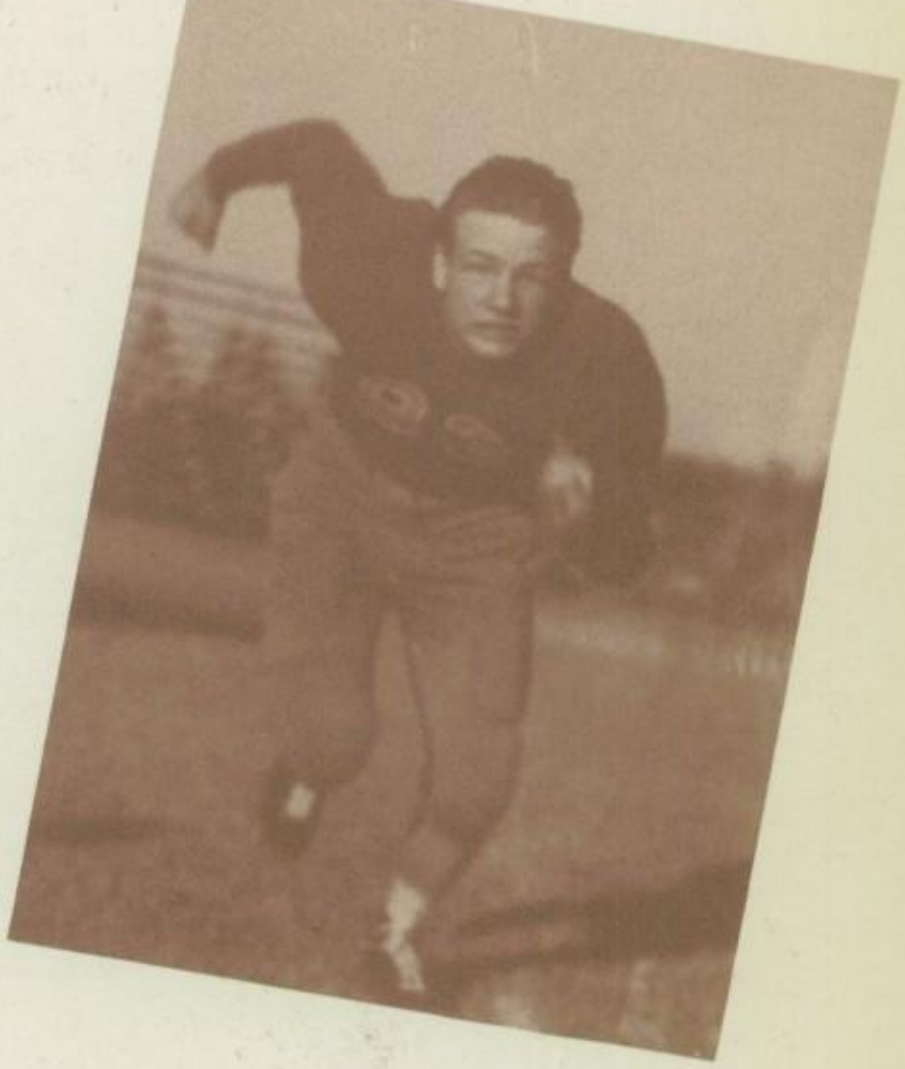


Gene Hill

Though light and comparatively small, Cotton's brilliant display of passing during the season won for him the quarterback position on the All-State team and undisputed title of the state's number one passer.

Joe Meissner

Joe was another one of the Pack to come through with All-State honors on his shield. He was recognized as State guard material even before the squad finished its district conference games.



Marvin Cooke

Marvin was called upon to replace Ab Bearden at guard in the Coyote line upon several different occasions; he was efficient enough to deserve a place on the '42 eleven.

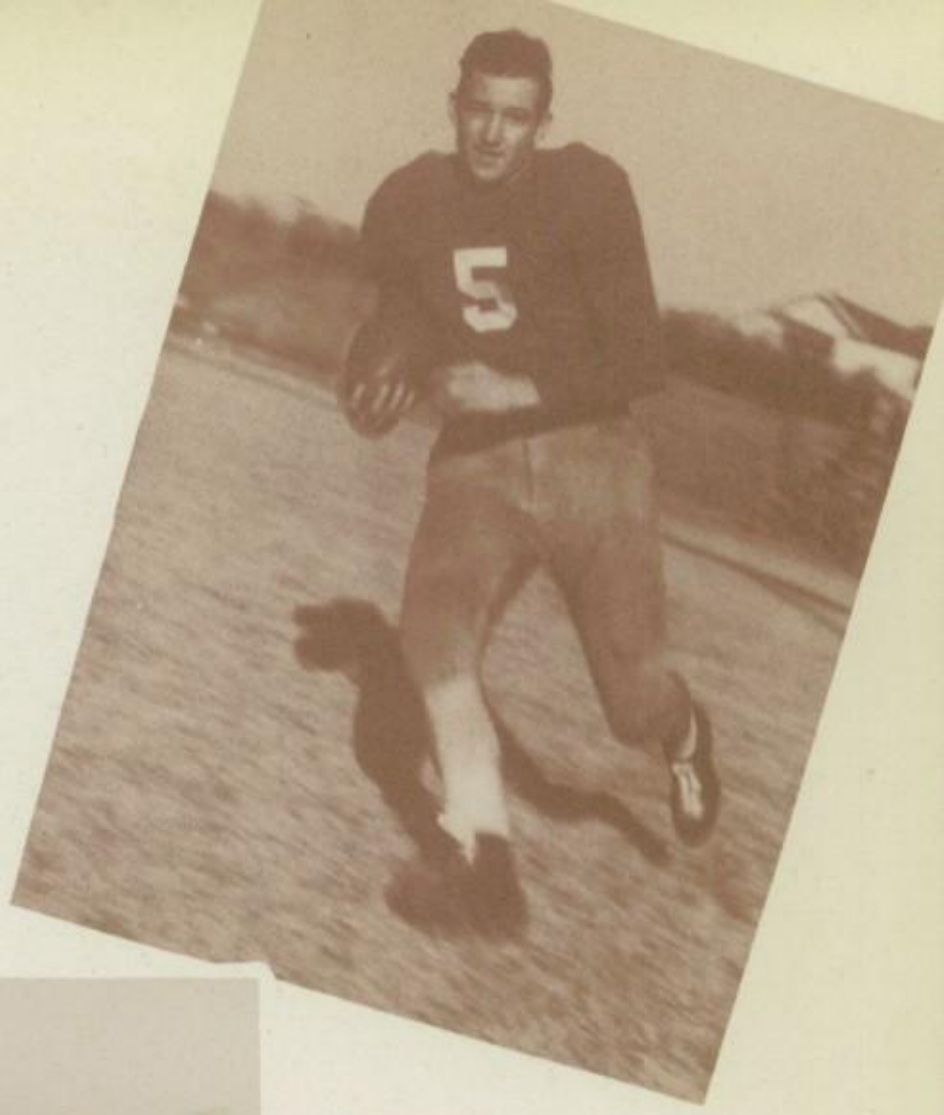
Mud proved to be the greatest obstacle in the Coyote's tussle with the Quanah Indians. In spite of the condition that the field was in, the Pack turned an expected battle into a rout when Smith & Williamson toted the pigskin for 9 touchdowns and Bobbie Lee opened with his gifted toe for 8 additional tallies on points after touchdowns.

Leon Foster

"Droop" as he was termed by his team-mates, proved to coaches and fans alike that tackle was his middle name. His ability gained for him a place on the all-district team.

Charlie Hair

Alternating between half fullback, Charlie gained title of the little "stea roller". His specialty p ed to be hard tackling.



Alden Shipp

though he was recogniz-as the clown of the uad, Al held down the ard position in a very ficient manner.

Bill Bolling

tradition of past Coyote ams is to produce a good nter from every season's rkouts. Bill certainly
d not fail them this year.

Bill Perry

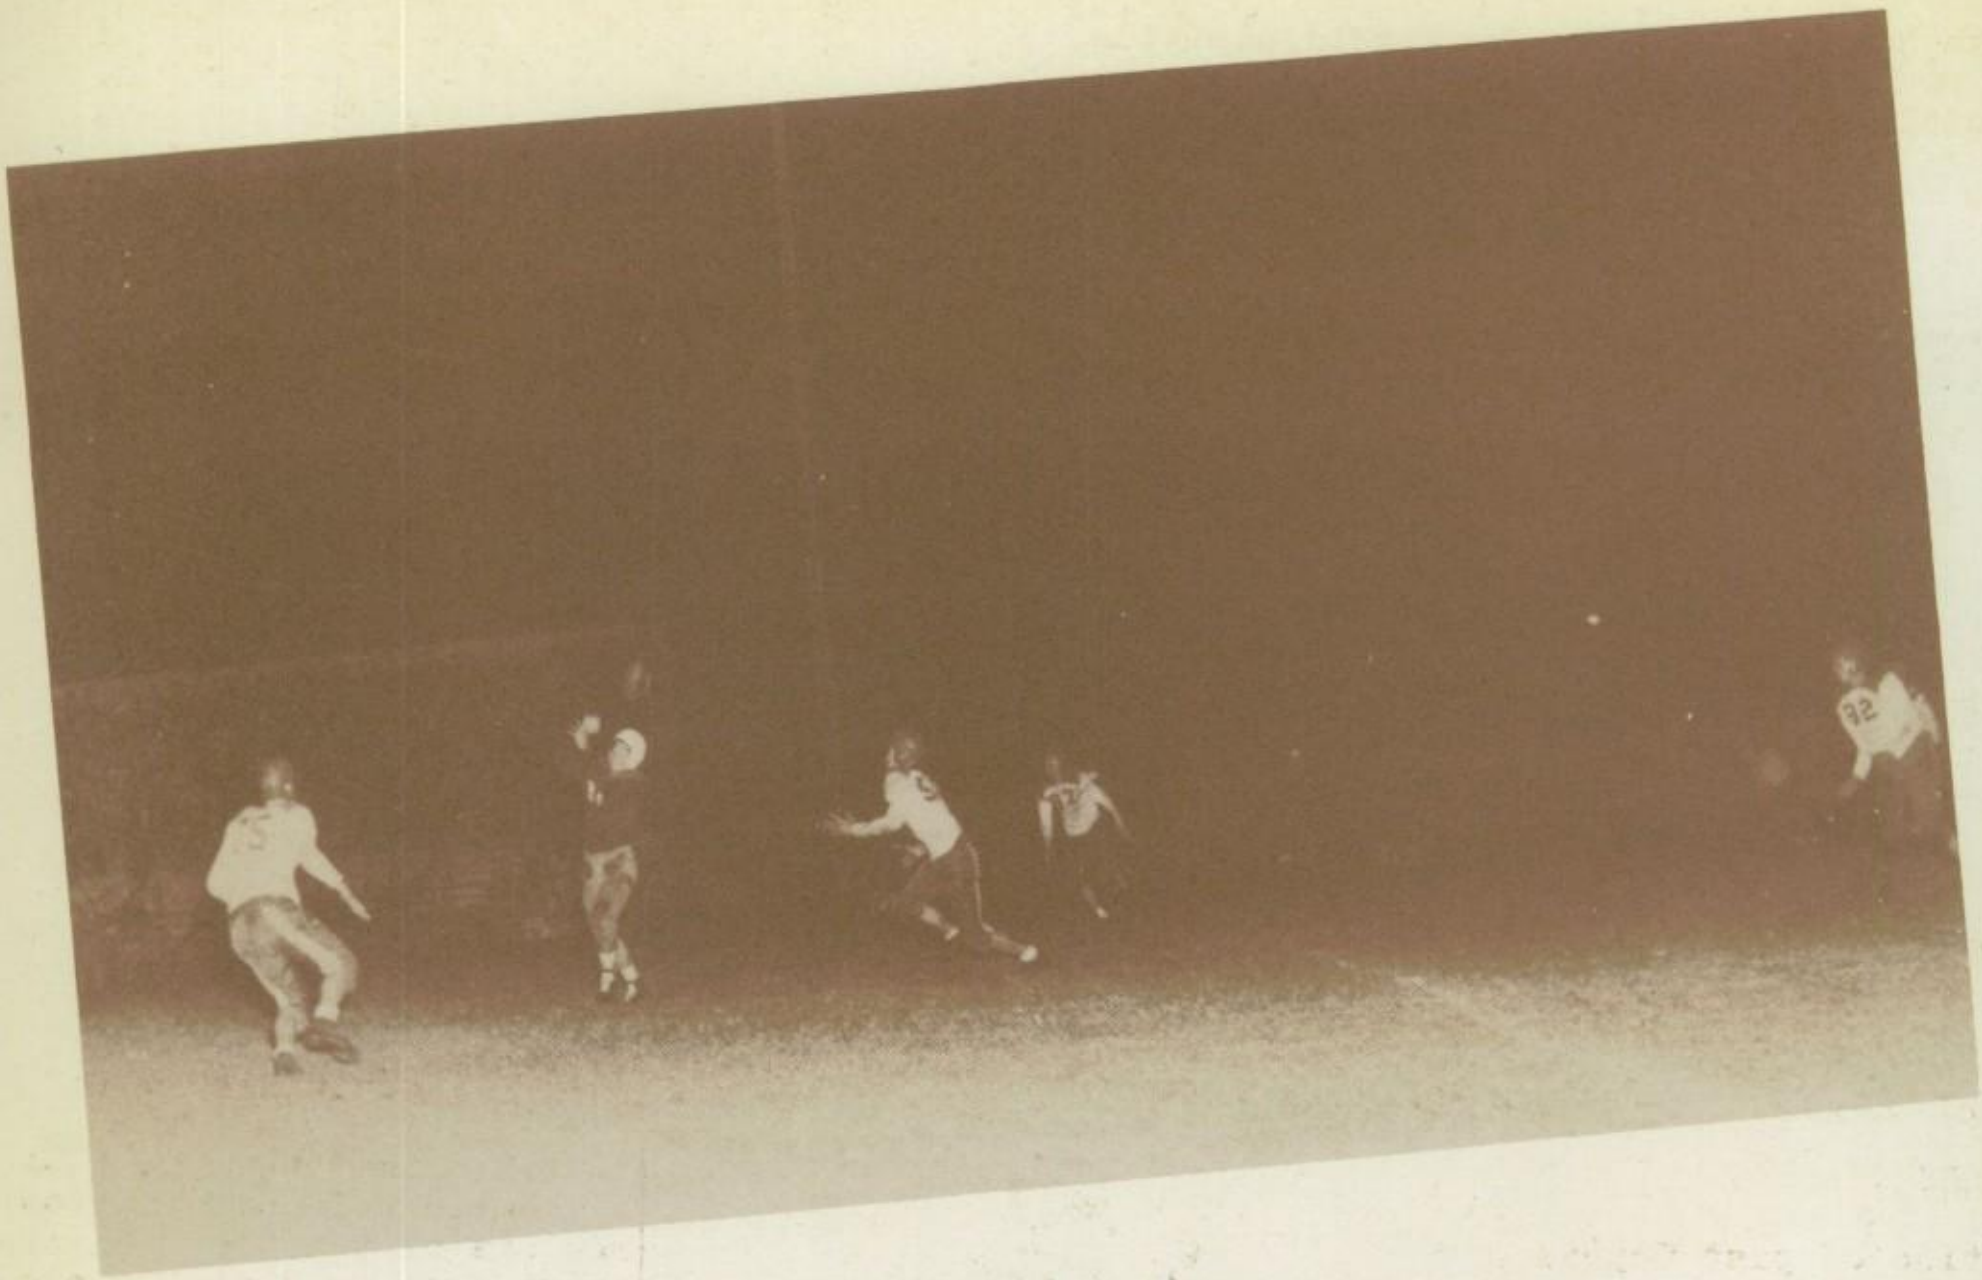
Bill subbed for Bolling on several occasions and gained valuable experience which will aid him at the pivot post in 1942.

Robbie Dee Smith

R.D., the other half of the Smith twin combination, was one of the most elusive backs ever to "tote a pig skin". He was also high-point scorer in the 2AA conference. That he is coming back next year is our good fortune. He made the 2AA all-district team.

Carl Hightower

Carl showed remarkable talent as a fast and delusive back; he will return next year to take his place in the Coyote backfield.

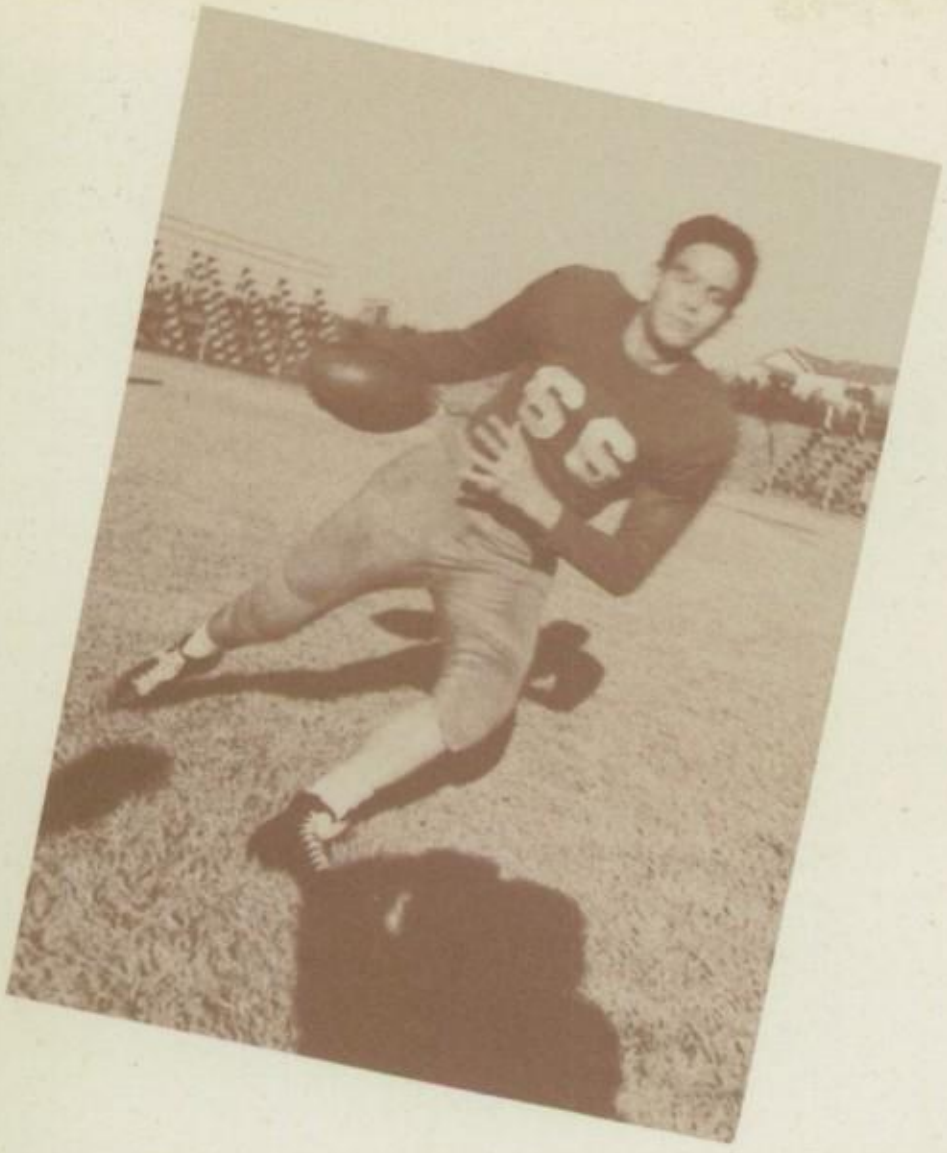


"Hoss" Stewart, all-state end, completes a toss from "you know who" in a close contest with the Childress Bobcats. Team co-operation proved to be the victor in this particular struggle with a decided improvement in the Pack's forward wall.

The entire Electra eleven trails Robbie Dee Smith efficient Coyote back, toward the last white line. Superior abilit marked the Pack as victors before the half-way mark, but renewed deter mination made the going tough in the last 30 minutes of the game.

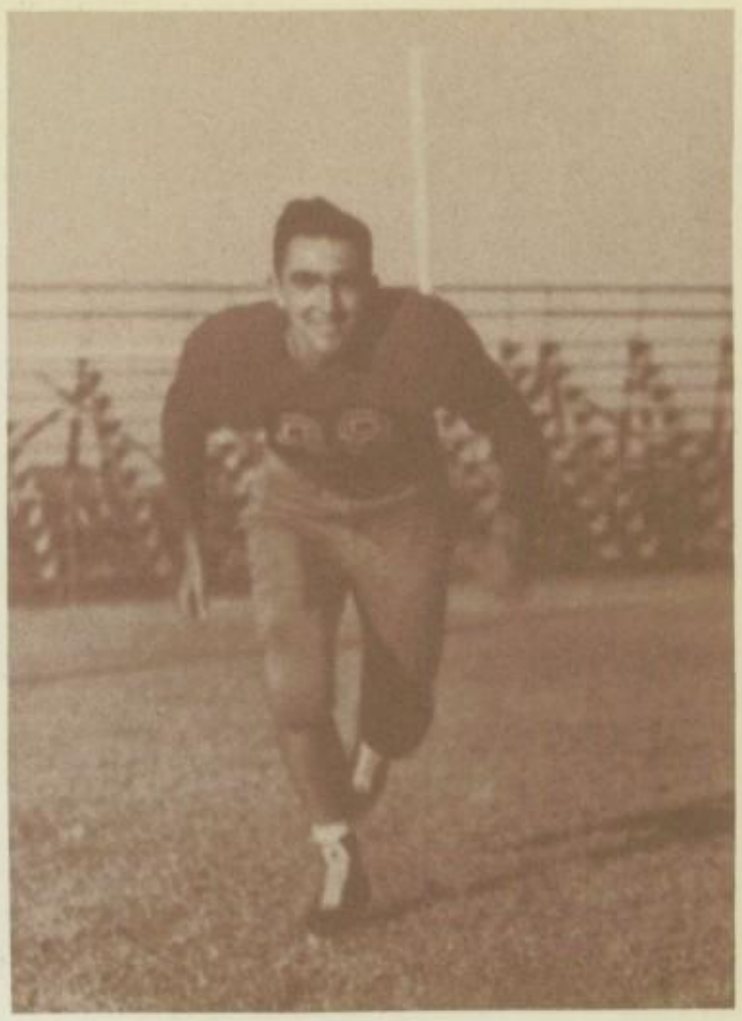
Norman Teague

Though he subbed at the backfield position, orman proved to be very versatile in the art f running and became a very accomplished player.



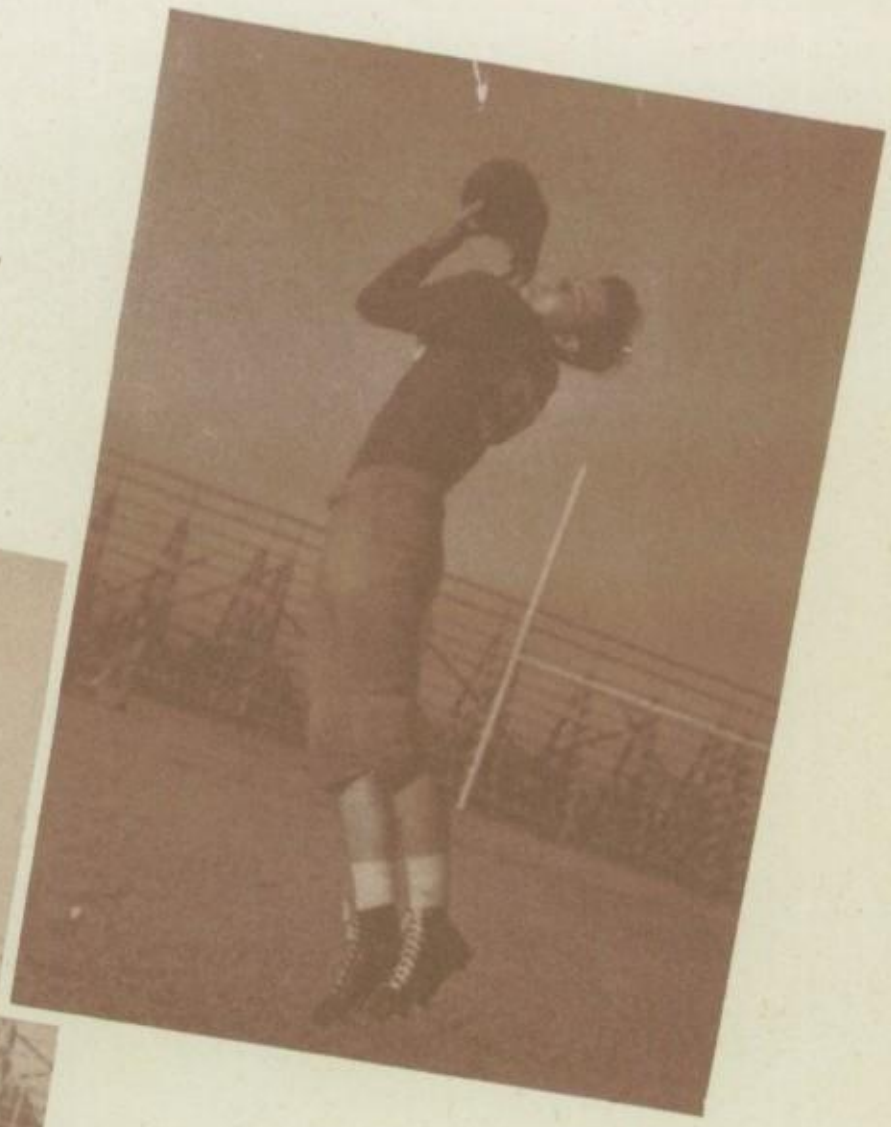
Lindsey Spillman

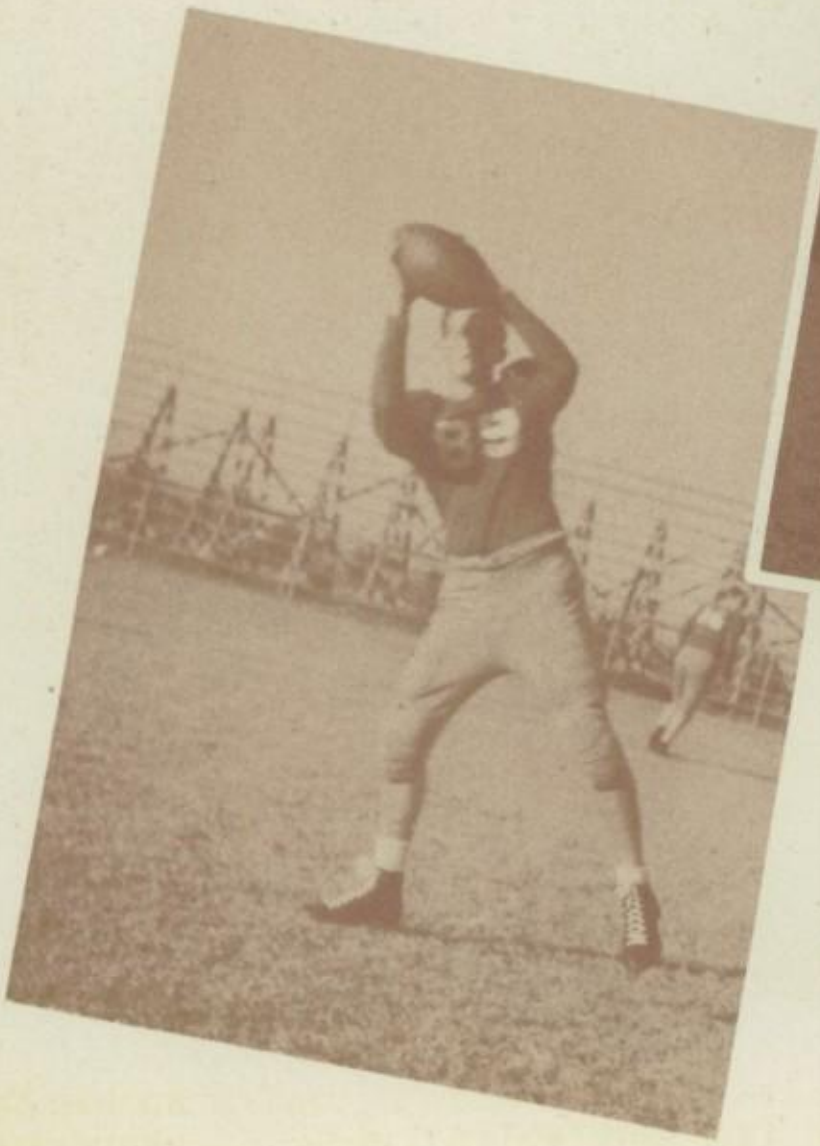
Experience was all that Lindsey needed n order to become a first-rate end; how- ver, he did show that he did have except- onal ability.



Donald Owen

Don saw service in nearly every game and as a result was branded as one of the Pack's most dependable tackles.





Clifton Davidson

Clif, better known as the"boy with the eyes in the back of his head", made his first year with the Coyotes a very successfull one as a result of his fine showing at the end position.

The game of tennis is one of fascination. WFSH is proud to claim some top-notch champions and boasts of quite a few "beginners".

Mr. McCarty has spent many hours in teaching the best prospects some professional angles to the sport. Even though one can't always be a champion, tennis affords one of the best means of exercise and rates high as relaxing amusement.

GRACIAS AMIGOS

Once again we come to the conclusion of the "Coyote" and another year of pleasant memories and educational ideals which we have acquired during our stay in WFSH. As we of the staff look into the past at the many happy as well as tedious hours spent in compiling this yearbook, we are constantly reminded of the whole-hearted cooperation which we received from outside sources. Without the able assistance of these many unselfish contributors, the 1942 Coyote might never have been published. It is, therefore, with the deepest appreciation that we acknowledge the help of these various groups and individuals.

To Mr. A. K. Presson and the office staff go much credit for student classification, checking, and other information given us. Appreciation is extended Mr. Ted Roberts of the Grande Studio, photographer for the class and favorite sections, who spent many hours of work checking and identifying students' pictures in order to lessen the burden of the staff. Our thanks, also, is given Eugene Yeakley for his willingness to go anywhere a photographer was needed and for his promptness in finishing all work given him.

The Times Publishing Company were gracious in letting us use the negatives of the football boys for which we express our gratitude. To the Steck Company, publishers and printers, and to their representative, Mr. E. B. Winkler, we owe a debt of acknowledgement for extra time which they willingly gave and for their personal interest and suggestions.

The continuous support of the "Coyote News" in keeping the student-body informed as to our weekly progress and in boosting our picture drives deserves our heartiest applause. To the many teachers who aided us in any way we express our sincere appreciation, but to the teachers of the speech and English departments we acknowledge a debt of deepest gratitude.

In conclusion, the editors, on behalf of the staff, express the hope that, from this pictorial presentation of life and activity in WFSH, the reader will comprehend more fully the merits of the good neighbor policy and will strive to put these principles into practice whenever the opportunity presents itself.

In all my school years I've never had the privilege of forgive me for causing you so much trouble.
